

Virginians Honored for Excellence

Virginia tradesmen and industry partners were honored by PHCCVA in September for their contributions to the industry.

Evan Hibbs (Evan Hibbs Plumbing, Portsmouth) was recognized as PHCCVA Plumbing Contractor of the Year. In addition to mentoring and training apprentices over the years, his unselfish volunteer record with PHCCVA and his involvement in a diversity of community activities, Hibbs is credited with establishing the PHCC Disaster Relief Fund following Hurricane Katrina.

Dan Foley, owner of Foley Mechanical (Springfield) was honored as PHCCVA HVAC Contractor of the Year. Foley served many years as a member of the PHCCVA Board and is actively involved with ACCA.

Daniel J. Crigler (L& D Associates, Aroda), was named to receive the James Muncy Lifetime Achievement Award recognizing his years of service as a contractor, teacher, mentor and representing the plumbing trades as a member of Virginia's Technical Review Board. Muncy was longtime executive director of PHCCVA.

Sean Butterfield, Noland Chesapeake, was named to receive the Industry Partner award, presented to recognize contributions that help make PHCCVA and its members more effective and successful.

Fairfax County Public Schools instructor Mike Hurt (Long's Corp, Fairfax) was honored as Instructor of the Year. Hurt, former PHCCVA President, has been involved as an apprentice instructor for many years.

Dan Foley, PHCCVA HVAC Contractor of the Year, and the Foley Mechanical Team